SOCIETY
THERE.Isenbergs Entertain
Officers of Donau.

MARTIAL sons of Austria and the fairest of Hawaii's and German daughters were entertained with lavish hospitality by Mrs. H. Alexander Isenberg last evening at the Isenberg residence, Punahou. The beautiful house and grounds were girded by strings of Japanese and Chinese lanterns of fantastic designs and prettily blended hues. All that decorative art could do was done to make beautiful surroundings for the guests. Mrs. Isenberg was an admirable hostess and German hospitality reigned supreme from the moment the first strains of music floated out upon the soft, cool breezes which swept down Manoa valley until the last guest had reluctantly departed.

The reception and dance were given in honor of Captain Haus and the staff of officers of the man-of-war Donau which has lain in port for the past two weeks. The compliment was a graceful one and the officers, who appeared in their natty evening dress uniforms responded to it with equal grace.

Upon entering the broad portals of their residence the guests first noted the rich colors of the Austrian flag, which was draped across the lanai. The drawing room and adjoining rooms were resplendent in the colors of the national ensigns of Germany, Austria and the United States.

The interior court, the Pompeian atrium of the residence, was prettily arranged and here the dancers retired between the program numbers to enjoy the cool Manoa breezes. The court was covered with soft Hawaiian plaited mats, and surrounded by a profusion of ferns and palms, while lounging tables dotted the space here and there, and about these, groups of prettily gowned women and war-decked officers gathered in the most informal manner imaginable.

One end of the front lanai was converted into a smoking room, divided from the rest of the lanai by an Austrian flag. The gentlemen's retiring and smoking room adjoined this and was made the most of by the European-bred guests.

The hostess was attired in a beautiful gown of silk of rainbow hues, trimmed with pearl passementerie, worn décolleté. She received her guests upon the lanai and made all feel perfectly at home. Mrs. Isenberg was assisted in the reception of the guests by Mr. Paul Isenberg, Jr., and a group of young men received the Austrian officers and introduced them to the women they had not already met at former functions. To the evening strains of a native quintet club, which alternately played Hawaiian and foreign airs, the guests tripped through the maze of ferns and the mazes of the waltz.

Many of the guests did not arrive until after 11 o'clock, being delayed by the production of Richeieu at the Opera House. Upon their arrival the scene at the Isenberg residence became more animated and the gaiety continued until long after the midnight hour.

Supper was served in the various rooms devoted to dancing, tables being placed both there and in the court, the latter being the most attractive of gathering places. The supper consisted of salads, cakes, creams and champagne, and full flowing bowls were drunk with many a toast to the hostess and to the officers of the Imperial Austrian Majesty's navy.

The dancing engagements for the evening were as follows: 1, waltz; 2, two-step; 3, schottische; 4, waltz; 5, two-step; 6, waltz; 7, extra; 8, waltz; 9, two-step; 10, extra; 11, waltz; 12, two-step; 13, lancers.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Gerritt P. Wilder, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Suhr, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Schaefer, Miss Irving Schaefer, Mr. and Mrs. E. Faxon Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. During the recent trial of certain members of the Belton Park Club in England, who were charged with illegally employing a number of young caddies who should have been at school, it was stated that the caddies were given luncheon and tea. "Why did you give them tea?" the Judge asked. The witness replied that it was usual to give caddies tea. "Ah," said the Judge, thoughtfully, "I presume that makes them tea-caddies."
